Demonstration for Johnson is Dis-

and Lowden Receive Enthusiastic Support

(By Hugh Ballie)
By United Press Leased Wire
Coliseum, Chicago.—The republican party today started the actual work
of selecting its candidate for presidency.

In mid-morning of what gave promise of being a very hot day, the delegates to the national convention assembled in the historic Coliseum, ready to remain, if necessary, until 493 votes have been cast for one of the contenders for the nomination.

The first move in the final stages of the 1920 G. O. P. conclave was to receive the nomination of candidates.

In expectation of seeing a spectacle,
thousands of gallery ticket-holders
were in their seats an hour before the time for starting, staring down from all sides at the comparatively small space reserved for the delegates. It was hot up under the steel girders,
and soon the galleries were a-flutter with waving fans.

Soon were coats and sleeves discarded among delegates and spectators. The throng looked like a baseball bleacher crowd.

As usual the opening hour passed with no sign of a quick start being made. The delegates began stripping for action to the extent of discarding collars and opening shirts at the neck.

The California delegation came in primly determined to stick to the finish for Johnson. They were primed to cut loose for their candidate at every opportunity and it looked as if their corner of the floor—in front on the left of the chairman—would see some exciting doings before night.

The leaders knew, but they weren't telling.

The first cheer of the day was for Uncle Joe Cannon. Some of the southern delegates spotted him as he came in and there was some yelling and hand-clapping, which, however, failed to spread.

Chairman Lodge called the convention to order at 9:58 a. m.

There was a lot of gaveling before Chairman Lodge could bring the convention to order.

Lodge's hammering continued for a full minute before his voice could be heard.

The Rev. Johnston Meyer, of Chicago, delivered the invocation.

After the prayer, Chairman Lodge recognized H. Hampton Moore, of Pennsylvania, who offered a resolution.

The resolution provided that the convention record its sense of "inexpressible loss" in the death of Theodore Roosevelt.

It was offered at this time because this is the first republican convention since Colonel Roosevelt's death. The reading was greeted with applause.

The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

Chairman Lodge declared the convention open for nominations. The roll call of states began.

Alabama passed, and Arizona yielded to Kansas. There was a great burst of cheering at this. Several large flags were produced and waved.

"The state of Kansas," again cried Lodge.

Governor Allen came forward to nominate General Wood. He received one yell of applause then there was a general call for silence, and Allen swung into his address.

fended Wood against those who call him a militarist.

There were cries for "Wood" in the rear of the Coliseum but Allen disregarded the opportunity for starting a demonstration and forged right ahead. As he told of how Wood was relieved from command of his division
on the eve of his sailing for France, a gust of cheers and a patter of hand-clapping swept across the hall, and this time several of the nasal voiced horns honked in the midst of it. It appeared that they were scattered throughout the crowd.

As Allen concluded, demanding the nomination of Wood, a mighty yell went up. Showers of many colored Wood feathers fluttered down from the roof in a veritable storm. Wood pennants appeared throughout the crowd. The whole scene was flooded with the glare of arc lamps, while the movies were taken.

Boosters Work Hard.

Repeated blasts from horns sounded in the galleries. Hundreds of delegates were on their chairs. The rain of feathers continued for several minutes. Evidently baskets of them had been concealed in the girders. The delegations in the center of the hall,
including Michigan, Iowa, New York,
Massachusetts, Illinois, Pennsylvania,
Ohio and most of New Jersey remained seated during the excitement.
Frank Hitchcock, one of the Wood managers, appeared on the platform.
He carried a blue feather. He was nervous and constantly licked his lips
as he paced back and forth.

During the Wood demonstration,
many delegates from Arizona, New Mexico and New England were on their feet.

The Wood boosters kept the ovation going, chanting in unison,
"Wood, Wood, Wood," when it showed signs of losing any of its strength.

At 10:38 a. m. the demonstration
had continued six minutes with no sign of abating. Wood delegations gathered up great bundles of the colored plumes which had come from the balcony. The chorus of horn blasts was taken up in all the galleries by sections and suddenly a great blaring of horns came from the spectators'
section in the rear of the platform.
Then the cheers welled up again.
Louder than ever, and nothing could be heard but a great, pulsating confusion.

The galleries took little part in the demonstration beyond blowing horns.

Lowden Gets Ready.

While the demonstration was at its height, Lowden workers slipped through the crowd, distributing pen-nants bearing Lowden's picture in preparation for the Lowden ovation.
There were cheer leaders in some of the delegations.

A Wood procession started around the hall chanting "Wood, Wood, Wood."

Mrs. Fosseen, of Minnesota, was the one woman in the procession
when it started.

At 10:47, the demonstration had continued 15 minutes, and was still going strong.

At 10:49 Lodge again pounded for order. His reply was a renewal of the Wood chant.

Lodge repeatedly banged with his gavel but was unable to get any attention.

At 10:52 o'clock the Wood demonstration was still going on though there seemed to be some diminution
in the uproar and all but about fifty delegates had resumed their seats.

The New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Arkansas, Massachusetts, Iowa, Illinois and other delegations,
which were not much excited about the proceedings, remained stolidly seated, many of the delegates with bored expression, glancing at their watches.

"We want Wood" was the next chant started, but it failed to make much impression.

Despite valiant efforts to keep it going, the demonstration showed increasing signs of fading out. There was still a steady under-current of sound but it was being kept up by comparatively few.

The Wood adherents had kept up their clamor for 25 minutes when 10:57 o'clock came. The sound, however, had dribbled away, and was manifestly being kept up by main
strength.

Secretary Of
C. Of C. Here
To Start Work

Hugh G. Corbett, Former Wisconsin
Resident, Is Glad To Take up Work Here—Chamber of Commerce Is For Good
Of All, He Says

Wisconsin reclaims a citizen and Appleton acquires a new one in the person of Hugh G. Corbett, new secretary of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Corbett arrived here late Thursday evening from Champaign, Ill., where he has acted in a similar capacity for two years.

"I am glad to get back to Wisconsin and especially to Appleton, which I regard as one of the prettiest cities in the state," said Mr. Corbett this morning. "I am favorably impressed with the city because of my frequent visits here in the past and believe there is opportunity for worth-while community service."

Plans Indefinite

"I cannot say now what I or the new Chamber of Commerce will do,
as I have not had opportunity to get in touch with the situation here. I want to find out just what the people of Appleton want to do. I believe that not only the members of the chamber but every resident of the city ought to have a chance to say what ought to be done for the city,
and it will be my aim to find out."

"The old-time chamber of commerce was merely an organization to assist the merchants. Today 65 per cent of its work is to assist the community and the remainder for the good of the business man and manufacturer. A chamber that gets out and works for the welfare of the whole people will outlive any other,
as many cities have proved. What helps the community helps the business men in the end."

Meets Directors

Mr. Corbett is to meet the directors of the chamber at a dinner tomorrow noon in the French room of the Sherman house. At that time plans will be made for getting the work under way.

Lived in Berlin, Wis.

Mr. Corbett was in the clothing business at Berlin for a number of years and resided there for 15 years.
His early days were spent there. Mrs.
Corbett is a native of Berlin, and has a sister living here. Mrs. J. T.
Purves, Lawe street. Both are glad to return to the Badger state; in fact, Mr. Corbett states that as one of the reasons why he was willing to accept the Appleton position. Mrs.
Corbett and two children expect to arrive here within about a month.

The son attends the University of Illinois and the daughter graduates
from high school this term.

The family has resided at Champaign for about 15 years. Mr. Corbett spent a number of years with the
A. W. Shaw Publishing company Chicago, publishers of System and other business publications. His work was the gathering of data on retail merchandising and studying of welfare methods in some of the country's large manufacturing plants. He devoted considerable study to the methods used in the Ford Motor company plant at Detroit. He left the Shaw organization about five years ago and up to two years ago was identified with a large co-operative buying company. His last position was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce
at Champaign.

QUASH INDICTMENT AGAINST WOOL FIRM

COURT HOLDS LEVER ACT DOES NOT APPLY TO PIECES OF CLOTH AND DISMISS-
ES ACTION

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Indictments against the American Woolen Company and William J. Wood, president, charging violation of the Lever act by alleged profiteering in sale of woolen cloth, were quashed today by Federal Judge Julian Mack.

Judge Mack sustained the demurrer brought against the indictments by attorneys for the woolen companies and Wood. He held there was a substantial difference between wearing apparel as mentioned in the Lever act, and pieces of cloth.

The Lever act prohibits charging excessive prices for wearing apparel which attorneys for the woolen companies contended did not cover cloth.
Their contention was upheld by the court.

The judge held that since congress
did not broaden the term "wearing apparel" to cover bolts of woolen cloth, the court was unable to find any other meaning in the act than that given by the general trade to the term.

The judge held that congress had power to regulate distribution and production of woolen cloth, but the Lever act failed to do so.

Mrs. Harry Gochbauer of Cleveland, O., is expected here today for a visit with her father, President Samuel Plantz of Lawrence college.

Census Shows Increase Of
2,778 In City's Population

Appleton's population is now 19,561, an increase of 2,788 or 16.6 per cent over 1910, according to an announcement by the United States census bureau
this morning. The population in 1910 was 16,773. The 1900 population was 15,085.
New population figures were rather disappointing to many Appleton people who had confidently expected that a growth to at least 20,000 would be reported. Appleton's growth is about on par with that experienced by other cities in the Fox river valley. Oshkosh gained only 100 in the ten year period.

AVERS G. O. P. CAN WIN ELECTION BY NAMING JOHNSON

SAN FRANCISCO MAX TELLS CON-VENTION THAT CALIFORNI-AN IS STRONGEST CANDIDATE

By United Press Leased Wire
Coliseum, Chicago.—Charles S.
Wheeler, of San Francisco, today placed Senator Hiram Johnson in nomination before the republican national convention. Wheeler, drove hard on the claim that Johnson's nomination would assure republican victory.

"Do you want another four years of the Wilson family in the White House?" he demanded.

"If you insist that the father of the dynasty shall abdicate, do you want the people then to take up the crown prince? If you do not, then why gamble with chance? Why close your eyes to the obvious? Why not admit to yourself—that every man of political vision already knows—that there is one republican who can sweep
the country—whose nomination will carry with it the absolute certainty of election?" The platform alone, he said, won't win an election. It's the candidate the people vote for.

Dark Horse Can't Win.

"A yellow dog is impossible and a 'dark horse' can not win. If you expect their vote, do not offer to them
a cold, capable, nerveless, unsympathetic, business administration."

"It may be true that our near-offices class—the captain of industry,
the disorganizing officers of the primary
army, and the colonels of commissary,
who advance the sinews of war—
would prefer a military leader," said Wheeler.

Demand By People.

"But I am here to say for the rank and file of the republican party that—
"The plain Yanks, who fill the ranks, that have the votes, are calling for the son of California."

"The time has come when a doubting nation is asking the republican party to say whether or not the highest office in the whole world is to be treated as the bauble of rich men.
You can answer that question by nominating the man whom the people want."

Nothing to Excuse.

"With him as a candidate, the party will have nothing to explain, to palliate, to repudiate or to excuse.
No $500,000 'angels' have been hovering him. No $25,000 tip from the friendly hand of a Standard Oil king has found its way into his political treasury; and not a penny from his private purse has been stalled in the gluey pocket of a 'show me' politician."

"Be it clearly understood that California makes no pretension, no claim that her candidate is the political heir of Theodore Roosevelt.
But if it should happen that the claim is here made that the political mantle
of Theodore Roosevelt was bequeathed to anyone, then, before you accept or believe it, California asks that you remember that Theodore Roosevelt, in the presence of an assemblage of fifteen thousand people
said of her son:

Cites Teddy's Endorsement.

"He is fitted at the moment to be president of the United States. And that so recently as the 13th day of January, 1906, over his own signature, he made this deliberate characterization:

"My fellow Americans, the hour has struck; the time has come to scourge the last of the bosses from this great temple of the republican party. Men of the south, if it be true
there are men in your number, hand-picked men who have forgotten the obligation they of all men owe to the flag of freedom; men of the north, if it be true that there are in your ranks political slaves who are being lashed into line by the black snake of some party League, tell them that they hold within themselves the power to strike the shackles from their own limbs."

"The sovereign state of California
now places before you in formal nomination—Hiram W. Johnson."

WOOD IS MAN WHO FITS NEED OF HOUR,
GOV. ALLEN AVERS

MILITARY LEADER CALLED MOST SUCCESSFUL ADMINISTRA-TOR IN NOMINATION
SPEECH.

By United Press Leased Wire
Coliseum, Chicago.—"With full appreciation of the challenge of the hour, I present the name of the man who fits the hour—General Wood," declared Governor Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, in placing Wood in nomination before the republican national convention today.

Allen reviewed Wood's military and administrative career. He cited his work in Cuba, where he established a stable government, he said,
and put the country on its feet.

"He is the most successful civil administrator the country has known," Allen declared.

Allen described how Wood was removed from command of the eighty-ninth division just before it sailed for France, and said:

"This man is no whimperer. He bade farewell to the men he had trained and went back to Camp Funston to train another division."

Answering those who object to Wood because he is a soldier, Allen demanded to know since when has this uniform become an emblem of disqualification.

Wood as Business Man

Allen went into Wood's recent acts especially when he took command at Gary, Indiana, during the steel strike. Allen declared Wood "dominated the situation with absolute justice."

"We meet in a grave hour, and what we do here will affect the generations. It is more important than it was four years ago—more important than it was eight years ago—
more important than it has been since this city saw the nomination of Abraham Lincoln."

"You ask for a business man. We present to you a record of four years
as governor of Cuba, a record which gained him international fame as the most successful civil administrator
the country has known."

"Leonard Wood's service in Cuba constitutes a page of history which records the cleanest and most unselfish thing one nation ever did for a needy people."

"Possessing the highest degree of business capacity, it was something more than the work of a business man. It was the work of a statesman who had not narrowed his vision to the purely business life. It was the accomplishment of a great national organizer. A president must be a business man and more. He must be a statesman. He must have a broad view of the international situation. The vague longing for a business man for president will not be satisfied by one who knows only business."

"A president must be able to interpret the shadow of coming events.
We do not need to speculate concerning Leonard Wood's foresight."

"When the great war broke upon the consciousness of the American people with a terrific shock, it found that Leonard Wood had been preparing. We heard from him no plat-itudes about a million men springing to arms overnight."

"While other men were preaching
the need of keeping out of war, he sounded the reveille that awoke a slumbering nation and made victory possible. He insisted; he demanded.
We must prepare."

"His model of voluntary training camps, expressed in the Plattsburgh program and his valuable educational work at Funston; his well known belief in a small, but well trained army, his constant declaration that he believes in the training of citizens for better citizenship, in sound minds
for sound bodies, can not be twisted
before an intelligent people into false shape with which to frighten the timid."

"A plain, blunt man with blunt belief in facts, he is today the best known American. No candidate for high office has ever gone to the people of this nation with soul and mind
so freely revealed as Leonard Wood."

"As president he will not seek to create for himself a neutral background out of mediocre men."

The fourth rehearsal of St. Joseph church choir will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

FOX RIVER PAPER
CO. BUYS TELULAH
MILL FROM K. C. CO.

ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE TO-
DAY OF BIGGEST PAPER MILL SALE HERE IN SEVERAL YEARS

TO RETAIN ALL EMPLOYEES

New Owner Will Not Take Possession
Until January 1, 1921—Book Paper is Now Being Made on Two Machines in Telulah
Mill

One of the largest papermill transactions in the Fox river valley in several years was completed this week
when the Fox River Paper company purchased the Telulah mill, on the water power here, from the Kimberly-Clark company. The consideration was not made public.

The Kimberly-Clark company will retain possession of and will operate
the mill until December 31, 1920, after which the transfer will be formally
made to the new owners.

Letters mailed to employees in the mill by both the Kimberly-Clark and the Fox River company assured them that they would be retained under the new management.

The Telulah mill was formerly operated by the Telulah Paper company. Its equipment consists of five beaters and three Jordan engines;
one 110 inch and one 90 inch Four-drum machine. The widest trimmer sheet is 100 inches. Book paper is now being manufactured on the two machines. It has a capacity of approximately 35 tons of book paper
daily.

Announcement of what the Fox River Paper company intends to do with the mill will be made tomorrow.

ORGANIZATION OF
3,000,000 OFFICE
WORKERS PLANNED

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LA-BOR PLEDGES SUPPORT TO STRIKING GOTHAM
DOCK WORKERS

By United Press Leased Wire
Montreal, Que.—President
Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, in a statement today condemned the labor rank adopted by the republican national convention.

"The plank is directly contrary to what labor asked for,"
said Gompers.

Gompers referred especially to the part of the plank endorsing settlement of strikes in public utilities by boards similar to that of the Esch-Cummings transportation act.

Montreal, Quebec.—The annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here today, took steps to give full support to the striking
New York longshoremen fighting merchants who raised a $5,000,000
fund to break the strike.

The resolution puts the American Federation of Labor on record as sincerely behind the strike and willing to give all possible assistance.

A drive to unionize 3,000,000 stenographers and office workers will begin soon in all big cities of the United States under authority of the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in session here.

The executive council of the federation will be in direct charge of the drive.

The decision to organize office workers may be taken as the reply of organized labor to the frequently heard complaint that only the incomes of rich men and mechanics have increased at all proportionately
with the rising cost of living.

Experienced organizers of the labor movement will be enlisted in the drive intended to enroll both male and female office workers.

The white collar element now is partially represented in organized labor through a few local unions enrolling college professors, school teachers, office workers and stenographers.

UNCLE SAM AIDS IN FIGHT AGAINST TYPHUS PLAGUE

By United Press Leased Wire
Vera Cruz.—Arrival of the United States destroyer Harding, with physicians, nurses and medical supplies,
was the signal today for inauguration
of the first effective measures to be taken by city authorities to combat spread of the bubonic plague.

If A. Schneider, who has been seriously ill at St. Elizabeth hospital, is reported to be improving slowly.

Convention to Hear All Nominating Speeches and Take at Least One Ballot Before Adjourning—Wood Nominated
First

By United Press Leased Wire
Coliseum, Chicago.—Fourteen thousand delegates and spectators sweltered in the Coliseum this afternoon and heard three presidential candidates
put in nomination before the republican national convention in the first four hours of its session.

The names first presented were
those of General Leonard Wood, Gov.
Frank O. Lowden and Senator Hiram W. Johnson.

It was the intention of convention
officials to remain in session until all nominations for president are made and at least one ballot taken.
A recess was expected to come at that time until a nomination is in sight. Lowden received the greatest ovation of the first three men put before the convention. He was cheered for 42 minutes. Wood's demonstration continued 39 minutes while Johnson's lasted but 28 minutes.

Charles S. Wheeler, San Francisco, made the nominating speech for Johnson and encountered aggressive hostility when he criticized the alleged financial support of other candidates. The crowd hissed and booed, and Wheeler was forced to stop several times while order was being restored.

Governor Henry Allen, of Kansas, put General Wood's name before the convention.

Representative Rodenberg, of Illinois, nominated Gov. Lowden.

"Up to the time the first candidates had been placed in nomination, the oratorical honors were easily held by Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson who seconded the nomination of Wood."

Mrs. Catherine Edison, of California, on behalf of Johnson's own state,
seconded the senator's nomination.
Clad all in white, Mrs. Edison, in a voice that shook a little with nervousness at first, told how California had adopted woman suffrage and passed progressive industrial legislation while Johnson was governor. She asked that Johnson be nominated as the man who understands the great humanitarian problems, and give the women voters a candidate they can enthusiastically support.

251 GRADUATES OF RURAL SCHOOL ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

RAIN INTERFERES WITH COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES AT WAVERLY BEACH THURS. DAY AFTERNOON

Annual commencement exercises of the county schools were carried out as planned at Waverly yesterday in spite of rain which made it necessary to hold the afternoon program in the pavilion. The attendance was larger than previous years. About 200 pupils from all parts of the county were present.

The athletic program in the morning was shortened on account of getting a late start. The girls' 100 yard dash was won by Lillian Thiel of Greenville. Bertha Kottz and Leona Carney of Freedom in the order named. The boys' 100 yard dash was won by Henry Powless of Osborn. Harold Grant of Grant, Chute and Andrew Egan of Kaukauna.

Two girls' teams and a mixed team entered the potato race. The latter team winning two out of three races. Badges were awarded the winners. The standing broad jump and the running broad jump were dispensed with. A picnic dinner was served at noon.

The regular commencement exercises opened in the pavilion shortly after one o'clock and was also shortened on account of a heavy downpour of rain. The program opened with readings by Miss Rose Vos and Miss Agnes Nelson.

W. P. Hagman, principal of the Outagamie county training school, delivered a short address after which a reading was given by Miss Rose Loeke. The program closed with the presentation of 251 diplomas by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, who advised the members of the class to continue their education. The number graduating from the public schools was 215, and the number from the parochial schools was 36.

COMMENCEMENT OF LAWRENCE BEGINS AT PEABODY HALL

JUNIOR PIANO RECITAL OPENS COMMENCEMENT WEEK — WEEK OF FESTIVITIES PLANNED

Commencement exercises will begin at Lawrence college tomorrow afternoon with the annual junior piano recital at Peabody hall. A splendid program has been arranged. Instead of the usual president's oratorical contest in the evening, a freshman oratorical contest will be held at eight o'clock at Peabody hall.

Arrangements for the oratorical contest are in charge of Prof. F. S. Orr. Five freshmen will take part. They are George Singer, Hudson, who will speak on "Shall We Reject the League of Nations?"; Jerome J. Mayo, New London on "The Love of Man for Man"; Edmund Tink, Antigo, on "The Challenge of the Present"; William J. Sullivan, Duluth, Minn., on "The Rise of the Common Man"; and Grant J. Verhulst, Milladore, on "The Salvation of Mexico." Several musical numbers will be given during the program.

Commencement devotional services will be held Sunday. A sermon will be presented before the religious societies by the Rev. Henry Guy Goodsell, Madison. The Baccalaureate address will be given by President Samuel Plantz at eight o'clock Sunday night at the Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Senior Class Day will be celebrated Monday with a class day program in the afternoon at the chapel. One of Wisconsin's well known plays, "The

LA FOLLETTE MAN IS HISSED AS HE TALKS TO BIG CONVENTION

E. J. GROSS, SENATOR'S BENCHMAN, DECIDED WHEN HE PRESENTS LA FOLLETTE'S PLATFORM

Chicago—Once again the voice of America has been raised in loud protest against Senator R. M. La Follette's views on national questions.

Once again Wisconsin has been hissed and jeered and laughed at by the people of the country.

It happened Thursday afternoon, when the G. O. P. convention booted down the appeal of E. J. Gross, Milwaukee, in behalf of La Follette's platform as a substitute for the one recommended by the resolutions committee.

Senator Lodge's threat to clear the galleries unless order was restored, saved Gross from being driven off the stage.

As in 1916, the young Milwaukeean faced one of the greatest conventions in the country's history, only to be hissed because he brought an unwelcome message.

His experience emphasized that, while Senator La Follette may be a great chieftain in his own state, he is not a national leader.

As Gross faced the great crowd, Senator Lodge introduced him as "Mr. Gross of Wisconsin, who wishes to present a minority report on the platform."

A storm of protest swept the Coliseum before Gross had a chance to speak, galleries and delegates joining in the hubbub.

Above the noise could be heard delegates, shouting "sit down." Others

CLAIM AGAINST 1ST WARD SCHOOL SETTLED

BAND HURT WHEN BELL ROPE BREAKS—CITY IS DEFENDANT IN INDUSTRIAL HEARING

H. A. Nelson of the Wisconsin Industrial commission and L. B. Rettelle, reporter, took testimony in several cases at the courthouse today. The case of George Bauerfind vs. the First district school was settled. Mr. Bauerfind sought compensation for injuries which he received when the rope broke while ringing the bell of the First ward school.

Testimony in the case of Frank Refke vs. Henry Burhans and the city of Appleton is being taken this afternoon. Refke was injured by a cave-in while assisting in digging a sewer on Spring street. He was employed by Henry Burhans to whom the city had awarded the contract.

Refke was awarded $1,366.94 compensation for his injuries by the industrial commission, $550 of which Mr. Burhans has paid, but has made no further payments. The city of Appleton has just been made a party to the action and if it is responsible it will in turn hold Mr. Burhans' bondsmen, Stephen and Charles Burhans, responsible.

Testimony was also taken in the case of Frank Wardeck vs. Interlake Pulp and Paper company and Joseph Bleier vs. Interlake Pulp and Paper company, both of whom alleged lead poisoning.

In the case of Michael Ferron against the Interlake Pulp and Paper company the plaintiff alleged that he permanently injured his thumb while using an emery stone.

League Of Nations Plank

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION AVERS ADMINISTRATION'S POLICY HAS BEEN HUMILIATING TO AMERICA — CON- DEMN WILSON FOR REQUESTING CONGRESS TO ACCEPT MANDATE FOR ARMENIA

Chicago. — The foreign relations plank, covering the league of nations, as made part of the republican national platform, follows:

A League of Nations.

The foreign policy of the administration has been founded upon no principle and directed by no definite conception of our nation's rights and obligations. It has been humiliating to America and irritating to other nations, with the result that, after a period of unexampled sacrifice, our motives are suspected, our moral influence is impaired, and our government stands discredited and friend-

A scrupulous observance of our international engagements, when lawfully assumed, is essential to our own honor and self-respect, and the respect of other nations.

Subject to a due regard for our international obligations, we should leave our country free to develop its civilization along the line most conducive to the happiness and welfare of the people and to raise its influence on the side of justice and right should occasion require.

Mexico.

The ineffective policy of the present administration in Mexican mat-meaningless and not intended to be seriously enforced, has but added in degree to that contempt, and has earned for us the sneers and jeers of Mexican bandits, and added insult upon insult against our national honor and dignity.

We should not recognize any Mexican government unless it be a responsible government, willing and able to give sufficient guarantees that the life and property of American citizens are respected and protected, and that wrongs will be promptly corrected and just compensation will be made for injury sustained.

The republican party pledges itself to a consistent, firm, and effective policy toward Mexico that shall enforce respect for the American flag and that shall protect the rights of American citizens lawfully in Mexico to security of life and enjoyment of property in connection with an established international law and our treaty rights.

The republican party is a sincere friend of the Mexican people. In its insistence upon the maintenance of order for the protection of American citizens within its borders a great service will be rendered the Mexican people themselves, for a continuation of present conditions means disaster to their interest and patriotic aspirations.

Mandate of Armenia.

We condemn President Wilson for asking congress to request and empower him to accept a mandate for Armenia. The acceptance of such mandate would throw the United States into the very maelstrom of European quarrels.

According to the estimate of the Harbord commission, organized by authority of President Wilson, we would be called upon to send 50,000 American boys to police Armenia, and to expend $275,000,000 in the first year and $750,000,000 in five years. This estimate is made upon the basis that we would have only roving bands to fight, but in case of a serious trouble with the Turks or with Russia a force exceeding 200,000 would be necessary.

No more striking illustration can be found of President Wilson's disregard of the lives of American boys or American interests.

We deeply sympathize with the people of Armenia and stand ready to help them in all proper ways, but the party will oppose now and hereafter the acceptance of a mandate for any country in Europe or Asia.

The republican party stands for agreement among the nations to preserve the peace of the world. We believe that such an international association must be based upon international justice, and must provide methods which shall maintain the rule of public right by development of law and the decision of the impartial courts, which shall secure instant and whenever peace shall be threatened by political action, so that the nations pledged to do and insist upon what is just and fair may exercise their influence and power for the prevention of war. We believe that all this can be done without the compromise of national independence, without depriving the people of the United States in advance of the right to determine for themselves what is just and fair, when the occasion arises, and without involving them as participants and not as peacemakers in a multitude of quarrels, the merits of which they are unable to judge.

The covenant, signed by the president at Paris, failed signally to accomplish this purpose, and contained stipulations not only intolerable for an independent people but certain to produce the injustice, hostility and controversy among nations which it proposed to prevent.

That covenant repudiated to a degree wholly unnecessary and unjustifiable the time honored policy in favor of peace declared by Washington and Jefferson and Monroe and pursued by all American administrators for more than a century, and it ignored the universal sentiments of America for generations past in favor of international law and arbitration.

and it rested the hope of future upon mere expediency and negotiation.

The unfortunate insistence of the president upon having his own way without any change, and without any regard to the opinion of a majority of the senate, which shares with him in the treaty making power, and the president's demand that the treaty should be ratified without any modification created a situation in which senators were required to vote upon their consciences and their oaths according to their judgment upon the treaty as it was presented, or submit to the commands of a dictator in a matter where the authority under the constitution was theirs and not his.

The senators performed their duty faithfully. We approve their conduct and honor their courage and fidelity and we pledge the coming republican administration to such an agreement with the other nations of the world as shall meet the full duty of America to civilization and humanity in accordance with American ideals, and without surrendering the right of the American people to exercise its judgment and its power in favor of justice and peace. Pointing to its history and relying upon its fundamental principles, we declare that the republican party has the genius, courage and constructive ability to end executive usurpation and restore constitutional government, to fulfill our world obligations without sacrificing our national standard of education, health and general welfare; to re-establish a peace time administration and to substitute economy and efficiency for extravagance and chaos; to restore and maintain the national credit; to reform unequal and burdensome taxes; to suppress disloyalty without denial for justice; to repeat the arrogant challenge of any class, and to maintain a government of all the people as contrasted with a government for some of the people, and, finally, to allay unrest, suspicion and strife, and to secure the co-operation and unity of all citizens in the solution of the complex problems of the day, to the end that our country, happy and prosperous, proud of its past, sure of itself and its institutions, may look forward with confidence to the future.

Word has been received here of the death of Allen Marx, four months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marx, at Werner, N. D. Death was caused by whooping cough. Mrs. Marx was formerly Miss Anna Klinko of this city.

ROY PIETTE
Roy, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Piette, 610 Bennett street, died of pneumonia at 1:30 o'clock this morning. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and three sisters, Lester, Albert, Ruth, Estella and Alice. The funeral will be held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Theodore Marth will charge of the services.

BAUER FUNERAL
The funeral of Virginia Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hanson Bauer, will be held from the home of the parents, 1061 Appleton street, at two o'clock Saturday afternoon. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Theodore Marth.

VERNON MUELLER
Vernon Mueller, eleven months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Mueller, 691 Spring street, died of convulsions Thursday afternoon. Besides his parents he leaves one sister, Vera. The funeral will be held from his parents' home at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Theodore Sauer.

New Idea in Packing Cloth
A paste of eucalyptus wood is stated to be the basis of the packing cloth of a manufacturer of Grenada, Spain. The paste is first made into paper, which is cut into long and narrow ribbons, and is then rolled into a spinning wheel, is held in position by a needle rotating 5,000 or 6,000 times a minute. The strip is twisted into a roll neither firm nor strong, and this is given greater resistance by soaking in a special glue that becomes insoluble on treating with hot vapors. The material is stretched for weaving into finer and stronger threads.

Not What He Was After.
"Got anything warming in your cellar, old man?" "You bet your life. Ten tons of coal."

TIMBER STRIKE IS IN ITS SIXTH WEEK

LUMBER MILLS AT MARINETTE ARE STILL IDLE—UNION OFFICIAL ON THE SCENE

Marinette, Wis. — The Timber Workers' strike for the eighth hour day has entered upon its sixth week. Outside of one or two attempts to operate the mills and box factories in Marinette and Menominee have been idle, with the employers inviting the men to return to work and the strikers maintaining a picket line that has made operation impractical.

The manufacturers claim that 80 per cent of the mills in the district affected, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and part of Canada, are operating and they publish a list of the companies they claim are operating.

The strikers claim that the number of mills operating has been exaggerated and that 80 per cent of them are down, although no list of the closed mills is published.

President Claire Covert, head of the International Union of Timberworkers, arrived in Rhineland, district headquarters, yesterday to confer with union officials. All attempts to negotiate a settlement here have failed and the mill owners here Saturday issued an announcement stating that they were closed until the men see fit to return.

Great Scientist's School days
When Sir Oliver Lodge was a very small boy he did not make that progress which might have been expected of a potential genius. Possibly the methods employed by his school teacher had something to do with this, for he kept a short cane inside his boot and used it lavishly upon his small charges. Young Oliver himself averaged about three cuts a day, and his little hands grew so tender that he could not hold a pen for half an hour after each caning. The instruction given at this school was entirely in classics. It has been suggested that this may have been what decided Oliver Lodge to go in for science.

Elaboration of Visiting Card
French ladies began to embellish their visiting cards with drawings, often, in the spirit of the day, in the form of hearts or Cupids. And then with Louis XV, that ardent patron of the arts, came the craze for fine engravings, and the ladies of the court soon adopted them for their cards to depict scenes on their estates, or that were of some particular interest to them. And under the engravings came the autographed signature! After France personal cards were adopted in England and all other European countries, varying in detail according to the inclinations of the particular time and place.

KELLER HOME HIT BY LIGHTNING IN THURSDAY'S STORM

CHIMNEY ON STATE STREET RESIDENCE IS WRECKED—STRIKES SEVERAL OTHER PLACES

Appleton was visited by the first violent electrical storm of the season Thursday night. The intense heat of the day broke toward evening and a heavy downpour started about seven o'clock. Lightning struck one home here and several places in the country. Telephone lines were put out of commission in several localities.

The worst storm damage was reported at the home of Karl Keller, jeweler, 416 State street. Lightning struck one of the chimneys, sending bricks flying in all directions. The bolt went down the chimney and would have ripped the walls asunder but for tin stoppers in pipe openings on the second floor. Two of these flew out forcibly in bedrooms, followed by a trail of soot. The soot door at the bottom of the chimney in the basement, and the ash door on the furnace were also forced open, raining soot and ashes.

Miss Theresa Keller was in one of the bedrooms when the bolt struck. The tin chimney hole cover flew past her head about two feet away.

A lone tree in a swamp in Grand Chute was struck and set aflame. A freak occurred on the Chris Pettig farm, town of Center. Lightning struck five fence posts within a ten rod stretch. A splitter was torn from about every fourth post, all on the same side. A telephone pole within a few feet was untouched. Telephone communication was cut off in the neighborhood of the Keller residence, and in several places in the rural districts.

The rain was welcomed by the farmers, although it came so quickly that some of the young crops were washed out. Land that was not well drained stood flooded during the night. A small amount of hail fell in places but did no damage.

THE PLATFORM

When President Wilson went abroad, December 4, 1918, to represent America at the peace conference he took with him an advisory commission of twenty-three experts who had spent a year studying political and economic conditions in Europe and Asia. With them went several tons of documents and maps. The collection of international data was said to be without parallel. Republican criticism of President Wilson's actions while abroad has been general, but a specific charge was that he ignored the experts. It was charged that he did not associate with them on shipboard and that he refused to seek their opinions after he arrived in France. The typical assertion in this connection was that President Wilson had made up his mind before he started and he did not care for advice from anybody.

The Republican national committee began work on its national platform five months ago. It sought the assistance of widely known experts. Committees and sub-committees were appointed and their reports were exhaustive as well as valuable. They collected statistics, enabling the national convention to frame a platform based on exact knowledge rather than on the usual bluff clubbiness. Chairman Hays was determined that this year's platform should be fact instead of fiction, and that the data should be at hand whereby the party could prove every assertion it made. This, as he declared, was to be a contract between the party and the people, entered into with a solemn sense of obligation and a high resolution to keep every promise made.

Some Republican Senators and other party leaders immediately upon arrival in Chicago proceeded to ignore the five months' work and became determined to write their own ideas into the platform regardless of what the experts have shown and with scant attention to the information to be had for the asking. Ogden Mills, chairman of the party's platform research committee, was easily maneuvered out of the chairmanship of the platform committee and Senator Watson of Indiana was chosen instead. Now that the platform has been framed it is quite apparent how little consideration was given the statistics and reports of the experts by the resolutions committee under his leadership when opposed to the desire or ideas of these men.

These are the men who were so bitter in their denunciation of President Wilson for his failure to consult with experts. The result of their conference in shaping the platform proves interesting to the public, showing clearly the difference between twiddle-de-dee and twiddle-de-dum.

VACATIONS

What, in fact, is a vacation? The dictionary sets it up pretty well: "A stated interval in a round of duties or employment, as for rest and recreation." Then the object of a vacation is rest and recreation. This is the accepted vacation season. The idea is to get the most out of it.

To do that, probably, a complete change in the usual routine of life and occupation will do the most good. As a rule, city people recreate in the country, along the lake shores or in the mountains. Country folks hurry to the city. Change of scene and environment is what both crowds are looking for. And correctly.

By sticking around the same old haunts in vacation time, one is apt to return to his job, whether in a bank, on a farm, or behind a counter, mind sick and limb weary. And his time off will have done him little good.

Many men and women at the vacation period try to forget absolutely, for the time being, their usual form of existence. They step out of themselves as it were. They brush the mental cobwebs from their minds.

MORE WORK AND LESS FIGHTING

General Obregon, who is proposing to cut the size of the Mexican army in half and put the demobilized men to work, has the right idea, if only he is able to carry it into effect. The great need in Mexico is for fewer fighters and more who are engaged in useful occupation. The most important industry in the nation in recent years has been that of conducting revolutions and levying tribute on foreign corporations and foreigners owning mines and oil properties within range of the outlaw hands. It has been easier for a lot of lazy, lawless plunderers to live by blackmail than by work, and the government has maintained troops to carry on a futile semblance of warfare against those bandit crews.

President Diaz did not find it necessary to devote all of his time and attention to robber bands, nor did he have a large proportion of the population of the nation mobilized in the nation's army. He organized a force of rurales, or mounted police, to go after the outlaws. With characteristic shrewdness he enlisted the services of some of the craftiest brigands to head the rurales and from that time there was little trouble from them while he was president. General Obregon is proposing to follow in the footsteps of Diaz, and has tendered to Villa the leadership of the national mounted police, an offer that has been declined, as Villa says he wishes to retire to private life.

An American who has lived many years in the City of Mexico is authority for the statement that 20 per cent of the Mexicans are responsible for 100 per cent of the country's troubles. The great mass of the populace do not want revolution and would welcome a chaffee to live in peace and quiet. But the trouble making minority has been able to keep the country in a ferment ever since Diaz was driven into exile. One de facto government has followed another until it would seem that all Mexico would be thoroughly disgusted and ready to back Obregon or anyone else promising to get away from warfare.

Mexican character may be very different from ours, but it would appear as if the real way to cope with outbreaks down there would be to quit dignifying gangs as revolutionists and to begin treating them as outlaws. If the Mexican people are in earnest and will back the new government they can make banditry very hazardous and unprofitable even in the mountainous regions. Those back of the new government seem to have intelligence as to the rights of the foreigners and law-abiding Mexicans. If properly supported, they may be able to rid the country of the revolutionary fever and get it started along the road to peace and prosperity.

KING'S AIR FORCES HAVE NOBBY UNIFORM

London.—Newly-designed uniforms for his majesty's air forces would put a musical comedy chorusman to utter shame. The uniform is of blue-gray and plentifully studded with golden acorns and leaves and silver wings. Even the trousers have a touch of gilt, and white gloves and a sword with a gold hilt and a golden tassel will be worn.

ELEVEN CATS ENOUGH FOR THIS HOME

Meriden, Conn.—"Notice to the Public," reads a newspaper advertisement here, "please do not leave any more cats at 26 Lewis-av. as we have all we need." "Every day or two somebody leaves a cat on our steps and we have to take care of it," complained Mrs. Nathan Greene, who inserted the ad. "We have 11 now."

SEVEN MEN TIE GIRL AND SNIP HER HAIR

London.—Seven masked men forced a girl here to open the door to them by threatening to blow up the building. Upon entrance they tied her in a chair and while six of them sang "We're Out For Ireland free," the seventh snipped off her golden hair. They threatened, too, cutting off her ears. A newspaper here says: "This, however, was not done."

THROAT CUT IN FALL—BLAME ELECTRIC WIRE

Patterson, N. J.—James Duffey, a telephone lineman, was found lying in the street here with his throat badly slashed. Although at first foul play or attempted suicide was suspected, it is now believed that Duffey fell from a pole where he was at work and that his throat came in contact with an electric wire.

JUDGE IS MODERN—WOMEN SMOKE? SURE

London.—John Hawker, who spanked his wife here because she smoked cigarettes all day long, found scant sympathy from the judge. "I'm afraid people who will not let women smoke nowadays are old-fashioned," Judge J. d'Eyncourt told him and fined him $10.

BOYS PREFER MOVIES TO SCHOOL—ODD

Patterson, N. J.—Movie-seeing boys from school, according to Recorder Young here, "He wants 'something done about it.' Schoolboys do odd jobs for moving picture theatre owners and are permitted entrance to the show during school hours," he says.

JUDGE A POOR JUDGE OF MOVIES

London.—Judge John Eve here has never seen a moving picture show. "Too busy," says he. "I've only been to a theatre three times in my life."

The city of Charlotte, Mich., added several hundred dollars to the municipal bank roll by tapping the maple trees in the public park and selling the sirup.

A purchaser of an old Arab mule in an antique shop in Paris discovered in the barrel of it 240 valuable turquoises, all of beautiful color.

In France noted criminals are made to speak and sing into a phonograph before their discharge from prison.

HEALTH TALKS

NOTED PHYSICIAN AND AUTHOR

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only queries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

A SAFE VACATION—2

Can You Stand the Strain?
The man or woman who lives a hygienic life, that is to say one who has a tolerable knowledge of and respect for the rudiments of hygiene, can endure a vacation as well as the next one, but needs it no more than a cat needs two tails.

The individual who knows little and cares less about the laws of health assuredly needs the benefits of a vacation and seldom experiences them. The faith of this individual in the power of a vacation to bring him back into form is as childlike and as surely unrealized as is his faith in the latest miracle-working tonic for the blood or nerves. It is curious, but true, that the man who believes "overwork" is accountable for his ill health never regains his good health on a vacation.

For perhaps 90 per cent of our vacations are more or less essential. The only question is how long a vacation should be, and how often it is necessary. Is one big dose annually the right plan, or would twelve smaller doses at monthly intervals, or perhaps fifty-two homeopathic doses at weekly intervals, produce the best results? Three weeks once a year is a popular dose, and too often it proves utterly overwhelming. What a great number of vacationists come back home to recuperate from the enervating effects of the spree! I am not a homeopath or any other kind of path, but I advocate 52 half-days of play annually as the preferable dosage.

With the vacation decided on, the next question is, are you in condition to stand it? It is wise to begin training for your vacation several weeks in advance of the holiday. Probably the best way one can train is by daily walking. A morning walk and an evening walk, with or without company, first for short distances and each day an additional mile, will put the average sedentary individual in fair physical condition in the course of three weeks or a month. In fact this training has one serious drawback; if followed too faithfully it does away with the need for a vacation. I realize that it is an exclusive kind of training, such as only the well-to-do can afford at present. It takes valuable time which one ought to devote to the movies or sitting in a hysterically nervous tension at the ball game. But even at the cost of three hours a day, it is cheap medicine. Some of us pretend we can't spare the time from business for any such stunt. The big gangs manage to find time for self-improvement; the little rants in business life can be tremendously busy over nothing to speak of.

Or maybe you have wooden legs or a ship's anchor holding you to the office, so that you can't take any appreciable amount of oxygen on the hoof. Well, don't quit on that account. If you can't enjoy oxygen by the mile you can take it by the minute. There are always ten to fifteen minutes somewhere in the day that you can have for your very own. In your own room, with nothing on. If you don't know how to get the most oxygen for your time that way, send me a stamped addressed envelope with the name of your city written out in full and I'll give you the directions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Why Not Name the City?
Dr. Brady has on hand some thirty or more replies which cannot be delivered because the correspondents have addressed themselves "City" instead of mentioning the name of the city on the return envelope. No doubt these thirty-odd correspondents are now convinced that this is a fake arrangement and that there is no such person as Dr. Brady. After all, it is a confession of laziness and inefficiency, is it not, to address a letter "City" or "Local" rather than to specify the name of the city in which the letter is to be delivered?

Due to Nerves

.....and now please tell me whether in your opinion my trouble is due to nerves. (Mrs. L. A. M.)

ANSWER—Suppose I did say your trouble is probably due to nerves. I haven't said anything then. That is a mere evasion. It is like saying the disease is "only functional"—which is a quibble, for all disease is organic of course, disease being a disturbance of function and function never being disturbed unless there is something wrong with the organ concerned. When any one tells you your trouble is just "nerves" or a "mere functional condition," watch out, for he is probably going to hand you a "tonic," which is something prescribed when the prescriber is much at sea, or too far away to know precisely what is the matter with the patient.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, June 11, 1895

Ferdinand H. Kamps had arrived home from the art school at Cincinnati for the summer.

L. A. Brown, Lawrence '90, was selected as assistant principal of the Wausau high school.

Leander Choate, H. M. Hayes, and John W. Hicks of Oshkosh were in Appleton on business.

Bricklaying was commenced on the new D. Hammel stables at the corner of Washington and Oenida streets.

Arrangements were being perfected for a celebration on July 4. In a general way the afternoon program was to include horse races, bicycle races, base ball games and athletic contests.

Krause & Co., of Milwaukee, who purchased the damaged grain of the Wisconsin Malt and Grain company, had a force of fifty men at work loading the grain into cars preparatory to shipping it to Milwaukee.

The West End Euchura club enjoyed a day's fishing on Little Lake Butte des Morts. Both dinner and supper were served at Stroeb's Island.

The campers at Loehlyrst, who had been trying for over a year to get trains of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road to stop, received notice to the effect that their efforts were successful.

C. E. Pope of Kaukauna left on an extended trip to the paper manufacturing district of the east.

The city was resplendent in holiday garb in honor of the saengerfest of the Eastern Wisconsin Saengerbund.

Spaulding's were advertising 1,000 yards of India silks at 19 cents a yard; 1,000 yards of Kai Kai wash silks at 25 cents a yard; 5,000 yards of cream shaker flannel at 4 cents a yard; and 1,500 yards of dimities, all colors, at 10 cents a yard.

MERE KITTEN HOLDS UP A WHOLE PARADE

Newark, N. J.—A white kitten held up a parade 15 minutes here and pretty nearly drove "Big Jim" McCormick, the traffic cop, crazy. A street car blocked the way for the parade. Jim went to investigate and found the motorman trying to extricate a kitten from the switch points. It took a quarter of an hour to take up the rail and pull kitty out.

Baby carriages which are propelled by electricity are now to be had.

THE BOOK OF ANN

Careless Flirtations Will Wear Down Matrimony, I Tell Ann

"Chrys says you're going to Hortense's hat shop," was my greeting to Ann. "Take me with you, please. My car has a bad tire." (That was quite true.)

Ann turned red. I must credit her with that degree of sensitiveness. "I—I'm to stop first at Mr. Ives' studio," she murmured. "I—I may have to wait there, about some crotonnes. But I can let the chauffeur take you down town, of course." At last Ann smiled charmingly. Evidently she was pleased to discover a neat way to shunt me.

"Oh, I'm in no hurry," I replied, as I slipped into the car. "Besides, I'd just love to see the inside of Ives' studios. They're perfectly splendid. I've heard."

But I was not to see the "period rooms" that morning. Claude Ives was waiting for Ann. He stood at the curb as the car pulled up, forestalling his man in his personal anxiety to assist the lovely young Mrs. Lorimer. He was very tall and very dark, and his hair was polished and he looked like a successful cabaret dancer.

Most of the complimentary eagerness faded from his classic features when he observed poor me sitting in a corner of the car.

He suspected at once that I was chaperoning Ann. When she would have stepped from the auto, murmuring something indefinite about crotonnes, Mr. Ives took out his watch suddenly and exclaimed:

"I'm to meet my upholsterers. They've been on strike, you know. I've arranged to see the leaders in half an hour. So sorry, Mrs. Lorimer. An unexpected turn of events." With that he closed the door of the car and Ann found herself shut in beside me. "I'll call you up this afternoon, Mrs. Lorimer. By the way, I'm sending some of the heavy furniture out to the house today."

There was more chatter, but I scarcely heard it. I sank back into the depths of the seat with a sigh of relief. I had won the first battle.

Ann was, I must admit, sullen for the remainder of the morning. Hortense couldn't find a hat to please her. But Hortense smiled—she was quite used to the kind, I suppose. Ann had picked up some of the smart woman's shopping tricks without much initiation.

Of course I took her to lunch at the daintiest sweet shop in town. And I bought for her the most marvelous "ornal bouquet, fashioned of gay candy flowers, circled with lace paper and tied with gauze ribbon. I humored Ann even while I wondered why we always try to placate our most perverse friends and relatives.

Finally, over the ices, I undertook the first step in my sister-in-law's education.

"Ann, you don't know the gossip of 'the town yet,' I said. 'Claude Ives is an artist, doubtless, but he is not a gentleman. No, in spite of his lovely way of bowing to a lady, he is not. He is—he has—well, he has broken up two perfectly good homes in this town, my dear.'"

"He's polite 'to me," sniffed Ann. "Nobody—not even Chrys—could object to anything he has said to me."

"Not yet, maybe, my dear. And he isn't going to. He isn't going to have a chance. For the honor of the family, you see. The Lorimers are very particular about their name. Very!"

"You needn't throw my father up to me—that way," Ann whimpered. I was close to tears myself.

"I wasn't thinking about your father. But now you speak of him, let me quote something your mother told me. She said that your father was always complaining that his genius couldn't stand the wearing down process of matrimony. Eventually he found that irregular love affairs were more wearing than the conventional thing. They destroyed his art. Now, my dear, careless flirtations will wear down matrimony and destroy a lot of precious things besides art. I know you haven't asked for my personal opinion, but there you have it. Please forgive me for intruding in your affairs. Really, I do not care whether you muss them up or not. But I do care tremendously for the name my husband asked me to wear. That's all."

It was all—and it was too much for Ann to take in, all at once, as I discovered that very afternoon.

Democratic Convention Snap-Shots

The Story of 16 Nominations

By A. H. VANDENBERG

The Convention of 1868

The Democratic National Convention of 1868 assembled on Independence Day in Tammany Hall, New York City. It is interesting to note that this is the only national convention held in the nation's metropolis by either dominant party since 1856. Henry S. Palmer of Wisconsin was temporary chairman and Governor Horatio Seymour of New York was permanent chairman.

Interest centered wholly in the nomination of a candidate for President, and it was from the first a contest of "the field" against George H. Pendleton of Ohio (Vice-Presidential nominee of four years previous.) The famous old "two-thirds rule" was ordained, and the "unit rule" was invoked—consistent with Democratic practice and tradition—but only after repeated attempts to break the latter strictures.

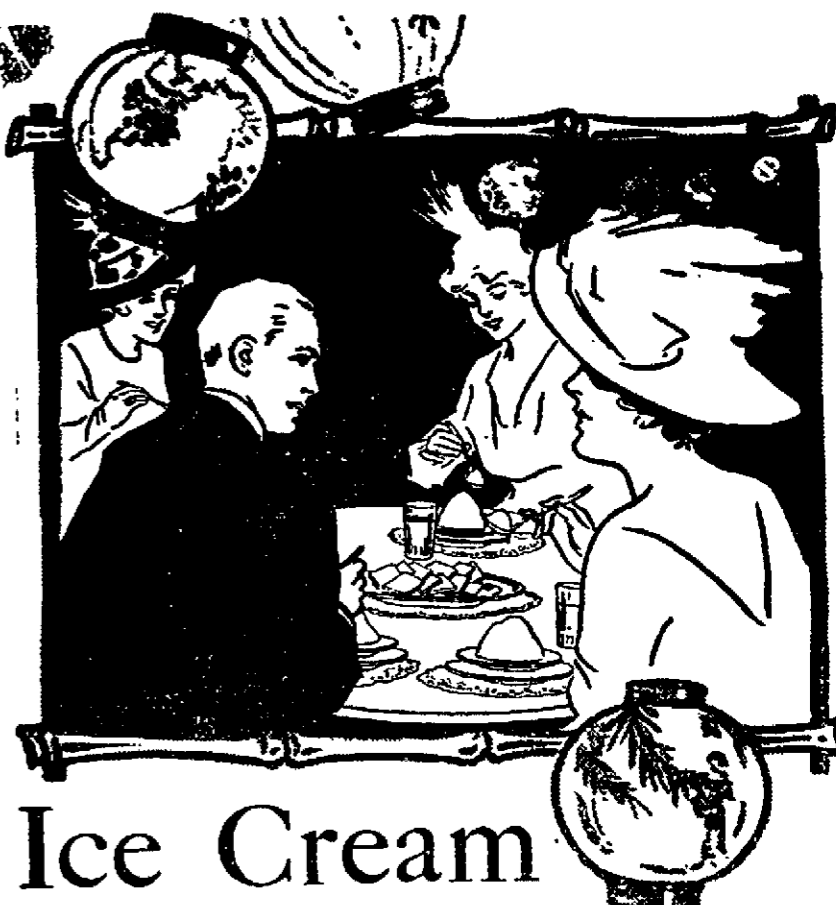

Great excitement prevailed throughout the long balloting. Pendleton led the first ballot in a field of 10. His nearest opponent was Andrew Johnson—elected as a Republican Vice-President four years previously—who was quite generally supported by Southern delegates. General Winfield S. Hancock of Pennsylvania, the soldier candidate (to be nominated 12 years later) was a poor third. On the second ballot, Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana (whose name was to figure prominently in later national conventions almost without interruption) moved into second place.

Still the ultimate nominee for 1868 had not appeared upon the roll. On twenty-first ballot, Pendleton had been entirely eliminated and the fight lay between Hendricks (132) and Hancock (135) with 212 votes necessary to a choice. When the twenty-second roll-call began, a few states switched to Governor Seymour of New York, who was presiding as the Convention's chairman. Seymour promptly refused to be a candidate. But the stampede was on, and when this twenty-second ballot was done, the Convention had unanimously made Seymour the Party leader.

General Francis P. Blair, Jr., of Missouri, was unanimously nominated for Vice-President on a single ballot. The platform arraigned Republicanism for "tyranny" in its reconstruction act, and praised the administration of President Johnson for resisting the aggressions of Congress upon the Constitutional rights of the states and the people.

In the subsequent election, General Grant won. To be continued tomorrow with the story of the Convention of 1872.

DOUBLE REWARD FOR LUCKY FISHERMEN

PRIZES WILL BE OFFERED FOR LARGEST FISH CAUGHT BY MEMBERS OF GAME ASSOCIATION

Fishermen members of Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective association again this year will compete for prizes offered for the largest pickerel, pike and bass caught during the season. The list of prizes will be announced later.

G. L. Chamberlain, secretary of the association, announced yesterday that only fish caught in the state by tackle will be considered in award of prizes. He suggested that fishermen who catch unusually large pickerel, bass or pike submit the catch to officers of the association for verification of weight. Prizes will be awarded shortly after October 1.

Arrangements will soon be made for a picnic and outing for members of the association and their families next month. It has not been definitely decided if the outing is to be held at Waverly beach if a steamer is to be chartered to transport the members to Winneconne where the day will be spent. It is probable, however, that the boat trip will be selected.

59 ELLINGTON COWS MAKE FINE RECORDS

REPORT FOR APRIL SHOWS 59 COWS PRODUCED MORE THAN 40 POUNDS OF BUTTER FAT

Exceptional records were made by the Ellington Cow Testing association, according to the April report prepared by Matthew Nelson, official tester. Out of 581 cows tested, 59 produced at least 40 pounds of butter fat for the month; 13 produced 50 pounds.

R. C. Burns boasts ownership of the largest number of cows from one herd in the 40 pounds class, seven meeting that test. F. D. Breitrick and Sons follow with six. Other high records for herd production were: Elmer Day, 5; E. H. Kirklin, 5; John Bohl, Ray Lorenz, Edward Lorenz and D. R. Halloran, 4.

Another champion came to the front in the April report, Butterfly, owned by Mr. Burns. She is only a native, but gave 1,461 pounds of milk testing 4.9 per cent fat, yielding 71.6 pounds of butter. Udelia, from the same herd, came second highest with 1,732 pounds of milk and 62.4 pounds of butter fat.

Big Star, the February and March champion, is still making records and is in 1920 class for April. Her record is 1,073 pounds of milk and 62.2 pounds of butter fat.

The Burns herd leads in average production of butter fat per cow, 14 averaging 1,118 pounds of milk and 40.6 pounds of butter fat. John Bohl's herd of Holsteins follows with an average of 1,132 and 37.8. Other good averages are:

Owner	Milk	Av. Fat
E. H. Kirklin	301	192
Ray Lorenz	298	206
H. Biesewer	287	196
A. Miskimin	275	142
John Grall	284	243
Ed. Lorenz	287	160
L. E. Nichols	291	132
F. D. Breitrick	263	172

Following are records of the cows that produced more than 50 pounds of fat in the month:

Owner	Lbs. Milk	Av. Fat

JUDGE ALBERT SCHMIDT SUCCEEDS A. G. KOCH AS STATE PRESIDENT OF THE EAGLES

President, Judge A. L. Schmidt, Manitowoc, vice president, Charles A. Dittman, La Crosse, secretary, Murt Malone, Oshkosh, treasurer, George H. Esser, Janesville, chaplain, A. F. Nussbaumer, Milwaukee, trustees, T. C. Olson, Merrill, and John DeCaro, Menasha, delegates to grand aerie, C. C. Adams, Wausau; Murt Malone, Oshkosh; C. P. Newton, Janesville; W. P. Boeling, La Crosse.

These were the officers elected by the state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at Oshkosh Wednesday night. The place of next meeting will be determined by the executive committee, and cities desiring to acquire that honor will advise the state secretary.

A resolution was adopted appropriating $700 from the grand aerie treasury to be used as prizes at the next state convention.

Appleton delegates and visitors to the convention returned Thursday evening. Many reported the convention to be one of the finest ever held by the organization. Appleton made a splendid showing in the parade Thursday afternoon. The Ninth Regiment band furnished music for the local delegation.

S. A. LITTLE FAILS IN KENOSHA STORE

FORMER APPLETON MAN FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY—UNABLE TO DISPLAY WARES

Stephen A. Little, formerly connected with an Appleton mercantile establishment, now owner of a ladies' wearing apparel store in Kenosha, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in federal court in Milwaukee, according to a Kenosha dispatch. Mr. Little, said inability to display wares properly was one of the reasons for the failure.

Following is a Kenosha dispatch describing the action:

"With assets listed at $15,000, and liabilities exceeding this amount by $1,900, the Stephen A. Little company, owners of the ladies' wearing apparel department of the Gottlieb store, filed a petition for bankruptcy in the federal court at Milwaukee this morning, according to Judge George W. Taylor, counsel for the firm here.

"One of the reasons given by the company for its failure was its inability to display its merchandise properly.

"The principal sufferers by the petition, Judge Taylor said, are manufacturers of ladies' wearing apparel in Chicago, New York and other eastern cities. The liabilities exceed the assets to such a small extent, however, that the Little company will be able to pay a large percentage on the dollar, thus saving the majority of the creditors from much loss.

"The Gottlieb company, in whose store the Little company has its display rooms, alleges that they have unliquidated claim against the bankrupt firm.

"Stephen A. Little came to Kenosha from Appleton, Wis., last August, and engaged in business here."

CHAMPION REDS NEED MORE RESERVE PLAYERS

(By Henry Farrell)
By United Press Leased Wire

New York.—Pat Moran is looking around. The Red boss looked around last year and picked one of the peaches of the year in Pat Duncan, his hard hitting outfielder.

The famous Fitchburger needs a couple of Pats right now. Moran has a good club—the same one that won the championship last year, but it is on the field all the time. His bench is barren. He has two subs and five pitchers but Walter Ruether is his only reliable hurler.

If the club runs into a string of accidents, the champions will be in a bad way. The indefinite suspension of Eddie Roush, the league's champion hitter, has brought out the glaring weakness of the club's secondary offense.

"I know I need some good reserves but getting them in another subject," Moran said here today.

WOOD, JOHNSON AND LOWDEN PRESENTED TOG. O.P. DELEGATES

The Wood demonstration jorked along and steadily grew just a little bit less full-bodied as it entered the second half hour. As Chairman Lodge came forward with his gavel, he was greeted with the Wood chant, shrill cries, whistles and more horn blowing.

At 11:07 the demonstration had reached the 35 minute point. At times it had descended to a low hum, to be revived by sharp outbursts from the sections occupied by the Wood delegates.

Lodge smiled whimsically as a renewed burst of noise drowned out his raps for order. He waited a while, then hammered with fresh vigor. The tin horns responded, and once more the chairman retreated.

At 11:11 a. m., after it had continued 39 minutes, the Wood demonstration ended.

Chairman Lodge then asked for seconds on the Wood nomination. He announced that each seconding address would be limited to five minutes.

Delegate Knox, of New Hampshire took the rostrum and began a seconding speech for Wood. Knox said that, speaking in behalf of the people of New Hampshire, he desired to second Wood's nomination because he was "the greatest living son of that state."

He seconded Wood as "a citizen of the whole United States."

He has provincial qualifications, Knox said. He said Wood had the courage and the vision to meet the present critical situation.

Another seconding speech was made by Mrs. Cornelius Roosevelt Robinson, New York, sister of Theodore Roosevelt. It was the first time a woman had made a seconding speech in a national convention. She was received with generous applause.

Mrs. Robinson said that thousands of American mothers felt the foresight and vision of Wood had sent their sons overseas to fight instead of being cannon fodder.

Wood has courage combined with common sense, Mrs. Robinson said.

If Roosevelt or Wood had been in the White House, there would have been no rousing words of protest as a tune for the Germans to march through Belgium, but there would have been real action.

As she ended, she cried, "Leonard Wood is the kind of a man who says 'come' and I want Leonard Wood."

A huge life-size picture of Wood standing with Roosevelt was lowered from the gallery.

Lodge ordered the roll of states resumed.

Arkansas yielded to Illinois and Congressman Rodenberg began his speech nominating Lowden. Immediately the Arkansas delegation displayed photographs of Lowden. There was so much confusion Lodge had to beat for order before Rodenberg could begin.

Rodenberg stood on his tip toes as he voiced the praise of Lowden, raising his clinched fists on high to pray "that God will speed the day when a better and a braver plot will be placed at the nation's disposal."

Careful attention was given to Rodenberg's address, and there was at first little response.

Upon the conclusion of Rodenberg's speech, the delegate section was suddenly filled with large posters bearing Lowden's picture. It was 11:41 a. m. when the Lowden adherents crowded into the aisles for their demonstration.

The Iowa delegation appeared with the biggest lithograph of the Illinois governor in the hall. Many women were in line. Their shrill cheers mingled with the deeper shouts of the men.

In one part of the parade, a girl waving a Lowden picture in each hand, was carried along on the shoulders of two men. It was the same young lady who had appeared in the Oklahoma section during the Wood demonstration. She was carried on the shoulders of her father and National Committeeman elect J. L. Hamon of Oklahoma.

The cheers were not very loud and were mingled with much whistling.

Along the aisles stood the leaders, encouraging the participants.

At 11:46 the demonstration passed its first five minute post.

The Lowden demonstration passed the 10 minute mark at 11:51. Practically ever delegate in the hall was mixed up in some way in the demonstration, either as a spectator, standing on a chair, or shouldering along in the procession.

As they marched, the Lowden men were busy recruiting. "First ballot, first ballot," they yelled in the ears of other delegates whom they encountered along the way.

The Lowden demonstration had been in progress 19 minutes at noon. The noise had diminished slightly but there was no indication that the Lowden people were thru with their celebration. The galleries were on their feet in greater numbers than during the Wood ovation.

A. J. Beveridge, of Indiana, took the gavel while Chairman Lodge was at lunch.

At 12:21 p. m. the Lowden demonstration reached the forty minute mark, thereby exceeding the 39 minute record of Wood's supporters.

Senator Beveridge was an even more strenuous gavel wielder than Lodge had been.

The Lowden demonstration concluded after 42 minutes.

Charles E. Pickett of Iowa, seconded the nomination of Lowden.

From a reliable source at Polindexter headquarters, it was learned that the senator plans to swing his support to Wood first and if the general fails of nomination, then to Harding.

The delegates were steaming with heat after the Lowden demonstration. Lowden's supporters also played the suffragette support by sending in Mrs. Flivetcher Dobbins, of Illinois to make the second seconding speech for their man.

Mrs. Dobbins was neatly attired in a plain black gown and a straw hat, the latter making a vivid spot of color.

In the shortest speech of the convention, Mrs. Dobbins scored a tremendous hit by paying a tersely worded tribute to her candidate, seconding his nomination and withdrawing after using up less than two minutes of her allotted five.

"In the name of the women of America," she said, "I have the honor of seconding the nomination of Governor Lowden."

Governor Edwin T. Morrow, of Kentucky, mentioned as a vice-presidential possibility, was the next speaker to second Lowden.

"Fully conscious of every responsibility of this great hour, Kentucky, republican Kentucky, brings you this message," said Morrow.

"Give us Lowden to lead the hosts in the battle in November and he will smash the Hindenburg line of the democratic hosts forever."

"Kentucky is the neighbor of Illinois. It is said in the holy book that blessed is the man who is loved by his neighbor. Without division of one mind, and with one heart, Kentucky will vote for Lowden until he is nominated by this convention."

Charles Wheeler, of California, put in nomination the name of Hiram W. Johnson. That preliminary mention of Johnson's name brought forth only a very modest, short-lived cheer.

The hotel lobbies, so crowded during the week, were almost deserted during the session.

At the outset, Wheeler's speech was quietly received. Several of his pauses passed in silence.

A quotation from Lincoln—"government of the people, for the people and by the people," got the first applause for Wheeler, but the crowd was slowly warming up. When he asked if the people wanted four years more of the Wilson family in the White House, there were cries of "No."

He demanded whether the people would "force the head of the dynasty to abdicate and then take on the crown prince."

It took his hearers a minute to "get it." Then there was a laugh and the name of McAdoo ran through the crowd. When Wheeler predicted the nomination of Johnson would assure victory, there was but scattered applause, but when he said that Johnson had won great victories without big financial backing there was a chorus of laughter, boos and hisses. Wheeler was forced to stop in his speech to wait for quiet and several spectators called to him from the gallery. It was the first evidence of feeling toward any single candidate's name by the delegates on the floor.

At 1:40 o'clock the demonstration was still on but obviously as in the case of all the demonstrations the outbursts were mechanical, and almost entirely lacking in spontaneity. Delegates in various parts of the hall read newspapers, fanned themselves or visited among themselves, taking little or no part in any of the proceedings.

The noise was confined almost exclusively to the galleries and to the efforts of the California delegation and a few of its supporters.

Senator Lodge who had resumed charge of the gavel, made no attempt to head off the demonstration or to bring the convention to order during any one of the lulls, until 1:41, when, remarking to the press box that the delegates needed a little recess, he stepped forward and banged half-heartedly with his gavel.

Airplane's Future.

There are innumerable uses for the airplane and the great thing for every business man to remember is that airplanes are not merely instruments of war but that they are practical commercial vehicles, which can be flown safely by any man who is capable of driving a fast car and which can be relied upon as a method of transportation at all times. When once established with the proper financial support you may be assured that the airplanes of tomorrow will be radically different in design and performance, etc., as the present day locomotive is from Stephenson's locomotive "The Rocket," of 1829.—Chicago Post.

How Bishop Won Fame.

An amusing story of how he won the title of being the champion coconut shier among the clergy is told by the bishop of Chelmsford. He informed a gathering of clergymen, says the London Chronicle, that when vicar of Bethnal Green he took a party of workmen to Epping forest and was there challenged to have a shy at the coconuts. He accepted and, paying his sixpence, was given seven balls. Then something happened which would not happen again were he to live to be as old as Methuselah. With those seven balls he knocked off seven coconuts. He has lived on the reputation of that feat ever since, and when anyone asked him to have a coconut shy, he said, "You go and knock seven off with seven balls and then I will speak to you."

Tea With Butter and Salt.

Tibetans, who are perhaps the most primitive and unchanged branch of the Chinese race, and adhere closest to the ancient customs, make tea with butter and salt in place of milk and sugar. The butter, according to F. Kondon Ward in the Wide World Magazine, is apt to be hairy, owing to the playful method of manufacture, which consists of kicking around a yak-skin of milk, the hairy side of the skin being turned in. The drink, he says, is pleasant enough, though to really appreciate it one wants to look upon it as soup and not as tea. The beverage, which is a frothing, chocolate-colored fluid, is one of the staples of Tibetan fare, and no Tibetan ever travels without his wooden box of butter, his brick of tea and a little bag of gritty salt

DITHMAR WANTS TO BE BADGER GOVERNOR

LA FOLLETTE SUPPORTER ANNOUNCES HE WILL SEEK NOMINATION IN SEPTEMBER PRIMARIES

MILWAUKEE.—Edward F. Dithmar, who has served as lieutenant governor of Wisconsin for three terms, announced Thursday night that he would be a candidate for the nomination for governor at the republican primaries in September.

This announcement makes him the second to enter the lists as an avowed candidate, Senator Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire having declared his intention of becoming a candidate several weeks ago.

Statement is issued from Chicago, where he has been attending the republican national convention. His statement is as follows:

"In announcing my candidacy for the governorship I feel that the electors of the state have had ample opportunity to know my record in the public service as I am now completing my third term as lieutenant governor and president of the state senate. My record has been indorsed in no uncertain manner by the people of the state. In each succeeding primary and election I have received an increased vote. The demand for my candidacy for governor appears to be statewide.

The poll my experience in state affairs would be a distinct asset and I should serve the people in the same manner as I have in my capacity as lieutenant governor.

Stand With La Follette
"At a more opportune time I shall make public a complete declaration of principles and state policies for which I stand.

My position on national questions is well known. As chairman of the recent campaign for the progressive republican convention, I exerted my best efforts to insure their election, and the people, by their votes, expressed the present political thought of the state.

"Never in the history of the state and nation has there been such an opportunity as now for young men to give freely of their time and talents to assist in readjusting the affairs of government so that government can again be brought back to the people. I offer my services to that end. I solicit the votes of all who have heretofore encouraged me in my efforts to serve my state and I now respectfully solicit the support of other electors who now feel that the interests of the state can be best subserved by my nomination and election."

"I want to buy a battleship," said the lady secretary of the navy.

"Well?"
"I wonder if I could get the chairwoman of the naval committee interested?"

"Ask her to go battleship shopping with you."—Louisville Courier-Journal

Harris Governor Pulley

The illustration in this advertisement shows a standard Harris Governor Pulley. This pulley is designed to prolong the life of a cream separator or other slow driven machinery. By means of this Pulley any desired speed can be attained by the driven machine regardless of the speed of the engine. For instance, if it is desired to run a cream separator or a pump jack at the rate of 50 revolutions per minute, it can be done even if the engine is running at a rate of 700 revolutions per minute.

Harris Governor Pulleys are manufactured in five sizes which include Line Shaft Sets.

Circulars and prices will be sent upon application.

BOSTON SOX COP THIRD STRAIGHT FROM CHI, 8-1

CHICAGO — Boston found Credit and Koor for eighteen hits on Thursday and defeated Chicago for the third straight time, 8 to 1. The only Chicago run was scored off Harper, who was weakly in the first inning. After he had passed a batter in the second inning he was supplanted by Russell. Score: Boston 8, Chicago 1. 0 2 1 1 0 3 0 1—Chicago 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1.

BROWNS SLUG WAY TO WIN OVER GRIFFS, 15-1

ST. LOUIS — St. Louis swamped Washington, 15 to 1, on Thursday, driving Shaw from the box and hitting Schacht a will. Eight led in the attack with four hits, one being a home run. Both saved Washington from a shut out when he singled after Milan had got his second double. Score: Washington 1, St. Louis 15. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—St. Louis 0 6 1 0 7 1 0 0—15.

CARDS HUMBLE ROBINS IN EXCITING TILT, 9-3

BROOKLYN — Umpire Rigley was escorted off the field by several regular and special policemen after St. Louis had won Thursday's game, 9 to 3. The crowd took exception to a decision at the plate in the seventh, when Rigley called Fournier safe on a close play. The Brooklyn players disputed the ruling and Miller was put out of the game. Thereafter the crowd hooted the umpire and when the game ended several hundred jumped into the field and made a rush for him. The police protected him. The score: St. Louis 9, Brooklyn 3. 1 0 0 0 0 4 4 0—St. Louis 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—9. Brooklyn 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 3—3.

ONE BAD INNING GIVES INDIANS 7 TO 2 VICTORY

CLEVELAND — Hasty had a bad inning on Thursday the fifth, and Cleveland beat Philadelphia, 7 to 2. Smith hit for a home run with two on. Coveleskie was a mystery except in two innings. Score: Philadelphia 2, Cleveland 7. 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—Philadelphia 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—2. Cleveland 0 0 0 0 6 0 1 0—7.

CUBS CONTINUE TO LOSE: PHILS ARE MALEFACTORS

PHILADELPHIA — Pitcher Gallia's single won an eleven inning battle, 9 to 8, for Philadelphia over Chicago on Thursday, tying home Foulke with the winning run. Gallia also pitched sensationally in the pinches. Home runs by Meusel and Fraggesser, each with two on bases, gave Chicago 9, Philadelphia 8. 0 2 4 1 0 0 0—Chicago 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—9. Philadelphia 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—9.

CATON'S ERROR IN NINTH GIVES BRAVES VICTORY

BOSTON — An error by Caton, an infielder, and Maranville's bounding single to center gave Boston a run with two out in the last of the ninth and a 2 to 1 victory over Pittsburgh on Thursday. Score: Pittsburgh 0, Boston 2. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—Pittsburgh 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0. Boston 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2.

REDS TRIM GIANTS IN ELEVEN INNING FIGHT

NEW YORK — Leather outfit beat two former Cincinnati pitchers, Douglas and Benton, in a pitchers' battle last night on Thursday, winning an eleven inning game, by a score of 2 to 1. It was Cincinnati's first win in a season. Cincinnati won when Daubert, Groh and Harden, pinch hitters, bunched cracks. Outfielder Koush of Cincinnati has been indefinitely suspended by President Hedges of the National league for his ban on with Umpire McGinnis here last Tuesday. Score: Cincinnati 2, New York 1. 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—Cincinnati 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2. New York 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—1.

BABE RUTH HITS OUT SIXTEENTH HOME RUN

DETROIT, Mich. — After New York had scored five runs in the ninth inning, Babe Ruth hit the sixteenth home run of the season in the third, when he hit into the right field bleachers, scoring one man ahead of him. Score: New York 9, Detroit 2. 0 2 2 0 1 0 0—New York 0 0 0 0 2 0 1—9. Detroit 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—2.

Origin of Old Saying.

If you will read up on the theological controversy between Arius and Athanasius over the nature of the second person in the Trinity you will get the plausible origin of the saying, "I don't care an iota." The one contended, using the Greek word, that Jesus was "homocousios," i. e., of the same nature as God, the other arguing that he was "homoiousios," that is, of similar nature. You will notice that the two Greek words differ only by an iota, the Greek name for their letter "i." So one tired of the riots in Byzantium and the prolonged disquisitions, contentedly said he did not care an iota.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Police All Ears

A British ambassador once had occasion to tell a grand vizier of Turkey that he had incontrovertible proof that there sat at the grand vizier's table every evening a man who reported all that passed to the ambassador of another power the next morning. It is said that the police of Paris and London vie with each other year after year in their claim that no important crime ever goes undiscovered. It was once wittily

Sea Always a Mystery

From the earliest times the sea has been the complication of mystery. The face of the ocean is inscrutable. The ancient mariners, skirting the shores of their country in flimsy canoes, looked out to sea with a dreadful desire. The Phoenicians overcame the fear of the unknown to a degree. The caravels which they sailed out into the West from the shores of Spain cut into cherished delusions, yet revealed sources of treasures undreamed of. Ever since the mythical voyage of Jason until these days of steam and speed—passage, journeys by sea have retained something of the romance which enveloped the search for the Golden Fleece. As the generator of mystery and possibility the sea has no peer.

Men's Rights

Men's rights are a great deal of trouble to them. They assert them, and get them, and then they don't know what to do with them. A man's rights, half of them, are meant to give away. . . . The beatitude of your rights is, they are your benevolences. You can yield them, give them away. And the law of social unity is the law of assertion of a man's individuality, and the use of that individuality as a benevolence for those that are round about him.—Henry Ward Beecher.

See That Air Space See That Double Wall

Naturally you wish to get the best value for your money when purchasing a silo. A Wood Tire Silo gives it. Here are some of the features:

Great Strength—Frost-Proof Easy to Erect—Lasts a Lifetime

Before you buy you should learn all about this silo—how it is built, why it keeps silage in better condition and why it is so storm-proof and durable.

It is a PATENTED silo, yet very simple and easy to build. There are no hoops or guy wires to fuss with—in fact it is a permanent, durable farm building.

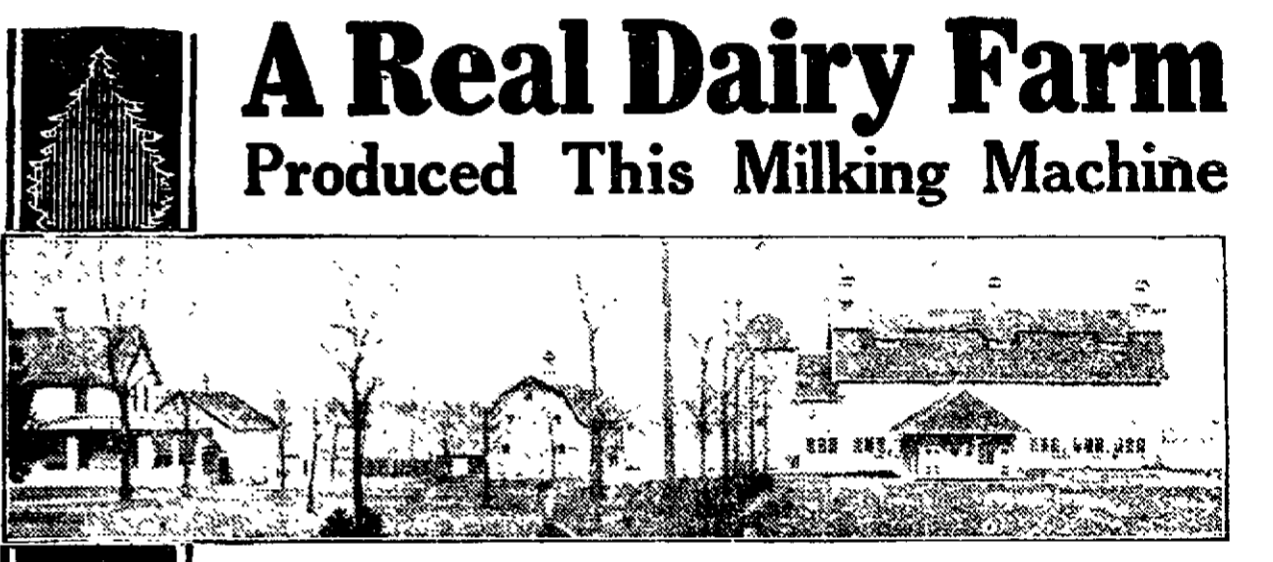

Better see us and talk it over. We can tell you just what other farmers think of it—probably we can take you to see one in use and let you talk with the owner.

Only one Wood Tire Silo has ever been damaged by storms and that in a cyclone of unusual violence. That's pretty good evidence of its great strength.

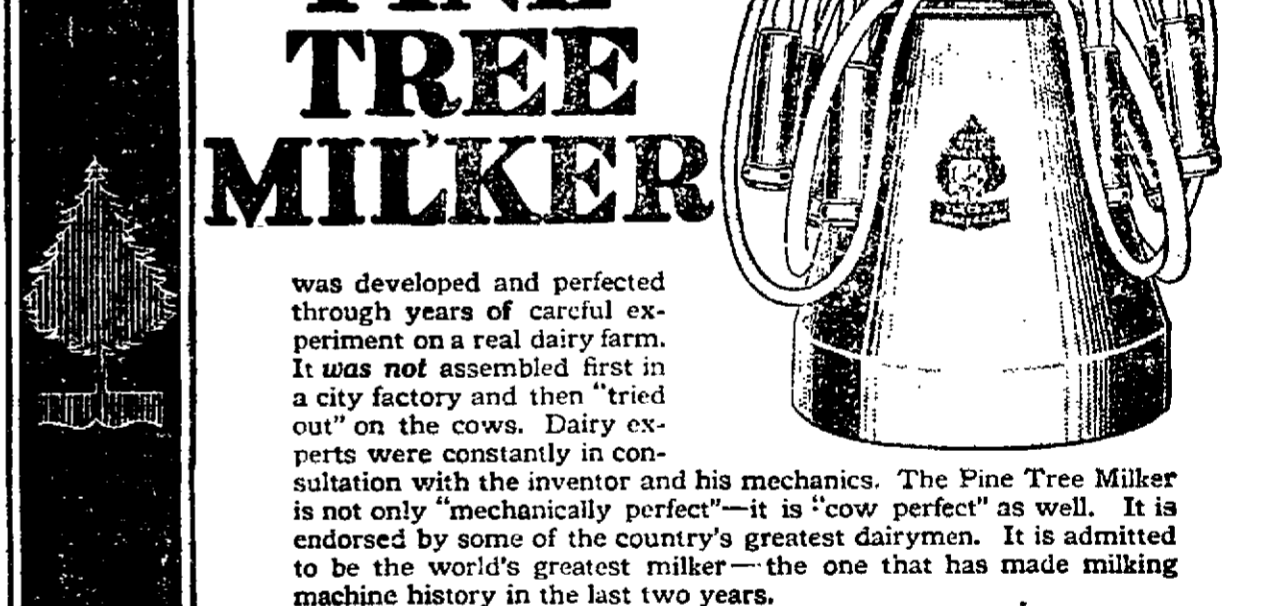

Better phone right now that you wish to have a talk about this silo.

A Real Dairy Farm Produced This Milking Machine

PINE TREE MILKER

was developed and perfected through years of careful experiment on a real dairy farm. It was not assembled first in a city factory and then "tried out" on the cows. Dairy experts were constantly in consultation with the inventor and his mechanics. The Pine Tree Milker is not only "mechanically perfect"—it is "cow perfect" as well. It is endorsed by some of the country's greatest dairymen. It is admitted to be the world's greatest milker—the one that has made milking machine history in the last two years.

Don't Buy Any Milker Until You See the Pine Tree

You must choose some kind of a Milker soon. But be particular! Don't buy until you know all about the machine and what it has done. The record of the Pine Tree is open to you—and its mechanical merits are so plain you can see them for yourself. Take the first step now. But make that first step right.

LEAVE JUNE 19 FOR DEMOCRATIC MEET

GEORGE BALDWIN WILL BE MEMBER OF PARTY TO MAKE LONG TRIP ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Wisconsin delegates to the democratic national convention at San Francisco will leave Milwaukee Saturday, June 19 in two special Pullman coaches. George S. Baldwin of this city and James Hughes of De Pere will represent the ninth congressional district. The party will consist of about 60 people and will include Joseph Martin, Green Bay, national committeeman.

The train is scheduled to leave Milwaukee over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road at 1:55 o'clock in the afternoon for Kansas City. From Kansas City the party will go over the Santa Fe route by way of the Grand Canyon, where the afternoon of June 22 will be spent. The train is scheduled to reach Los Angeles the morning of June 24 and a day will be spent there. Departure from Los Angeles is scheduled for the night of June 24 over the Southern Pacific road to complete the last lap of the trip to San Francisco, arriving there on June 25. The convention opens June 28.

Mr. Baldwin plans to spend about a month in the west after the convention is over. He will be at Los Angeles part of the time and also plans to go to Portland, Ore. With the advent of hot weather he is pleased to think the convention is being held at San Francisco rather than in the middle west, because the temperature on the Pacific coast is not excessive.

Wisconsin industries employing thousands of workers are dependent on Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company for light, heat, power and street railway services. Their requirements increase year by year. Each year there is increased demand for the Company's services in the offices, stores and homes of the cities, towns, villages and farms of the eleven rich counties surrounding the Milwaukee metropolitan district, which Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company serves.

Wisconsin investors are given first chance to supply the new capital needed to satisfy this increase of demand, and to share its earnings. Over 8,000 Wisconsin men and women, most of them small investors, are drawing regular and dependable 7 per cent interest or dividend payments from savings invested in Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company and The Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Company, which are closely affiliated under a common ownership and management.

CHIPPEWA BREEDERS HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

BOYS AND GIRLS HELP JUDGE STOCK AT ENJOYABLE GATHERING IN WESTERN PART OF STATE

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—The Chippewa County Guernsey breeders proved royal entertainers to their 150 guests who came from all points in the county to attend their second annual meeting and picnic held at the farm of the president, L. P. Martiny, in Eagle Point.

There are few more beautiful picnic spots in the county than that on the Martiny farm—with O'Neill creek meandering among the elms which cast their shade everywhere, so that at no time were the picnickers made uncomfortable by the sun. Five large tables were loaded with all the delicious salads, sandwiches and other good "eats" that proclaimed the wives of the Guernsey men as "some cooks." The association served coffee and ice cream.

Boys, Girls, Judge Stock

After the "spread" came the stock judging contest in charge of W. C. Christianson, agricultural teacher at the Chippewa Falls high school. Five of Martiny's cows were led out—some of his best and some of his poorest—but near enough alike to tax the wits of even the best judges.

Following is the result of the contest:

Class A—Boys and girls under 20. 1st, Truman Woodruff, Eagle Point; 2nd, Lorenz Muench, the town of Bloomer; 3rd, Herman Rasmus, the town of Anson; 4th, George Tibbitts, Chippewa Falls.

Class D—All over 20 years. 1st, I. W. Cartwright, New Auburn; 2nd, Neil Tarr, New Auburn; 3rd, W. H. Rheingans, Eagle Point; 4th, F. L. Hill, Cadott.

Elect Eagle Point Man

After this the party went to a little meeting place arranged under the trees, where the program was opened by the president, who gave his annual address. He urged particularly a Guernsey exhibit at the State fair this fall—not an exhibit of one or two members showing a large number, but two or three of the best animals from as many as possible.

Following are the officers and directors elected for the ensuing year: President, L. P. Martiny, Eagle Point; vice president, W. J. Stockwell, Holcombe; secretary, P. D. Southworth, Chippewa Falls; treasurer, W. H. Scott, Stanley; directors, Neil Tarr, New Auburn; Andrew Muench, Bloomer; F. L. Hill, Cadott; Carl Ritland, Eagle Point.

Fertilizes Egypt

The amount of fertilizing matter brought down by the River Nile from its source every year is estimated at 100,000,000 tons—enough to cover a road from the earth to the moon 16 feet wide by two and one-half inches deep.

Plant That Coughs

Botanists have records of carnivorous plants which eat even mice; there are laughing and weeping flowers; and now, according to the Journal de la Sante, there is in the tropics a "coughing plant." Its fruit is like the common bean. It is easily aroused to anger, and what is more strange, has a horror of all kinds of dust. As soon as a few grains fall on the leaves the stomates or air cells, which are the breathing organs, fill with gas, puff out and throw off the dust with slight explosions like the cough of a child.

The True Bravery

There is as much true courage in enduring with constancy the sorrows of the soul as in remaining steadily on the wall of a battery. To give oneself up to grief without resistance, to kill oneself in order to escape from it, is to abandon the battlefield before victory.—Napoleon.

Selfishness Gains Nothing

Men should see life as more than a means of personal advancement. Selfishness may achieve, but its glorious name will soon be forgotten in the round of yesterdays. It's life that lives for the common good that lays tribute on humanity and carves an indelible name in the very foundations of history. Call it Utopian if you will. Facts show that men must die to really live. And men who give themselves to human betterment live as they raise others from unreasonable drudgery to honorable toil and common comforts.

There is in the heart of woman such a deep well of love that no age can freeze it.—Bulwer-Lytton.
